REPEAL FORCES TO STAGE RALLY

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

People out on the side roads have a little more time to think. They have no long stream of traffic to watch. One does not know there is anything wrong with the world when he takes a side road instead of the main highway on a Sunday afternoon. You can sort of lallygag along with no hurried and harried youth honking in impatience at you or looking as though he would like to commit murder on a doddering old fool who had lived long enough to know that there was ample time left in which to die hurridly at any time he chose.

In the time of mental, moral and economic warfare the side road is the calming influence. It is the perfect sedative. There are woody patches which have escaped the vandal hands of the city folk, and the deep inviting coolness is restful. You have time to look at the fields of growing corn. You have time for much contemplation of nature. If you have time to talk with the man out in front who is sitting in the shade on Sunday you can learn that the hay is about a normal crop, that alfalfa is doing well and gives promise of a good second cutting, that corn is better than for several years past, and that we have had enough rain, so we don't have to worry about a drouth.

The white hens and strutting roosters in the yard, the horses with chins resting on a fence, under the grateful shade of a spreading tree, the cattle out in a pasture working their way gradually to the gate through which they come nightly to the barn for milking, the grunting pigs rooting a little among the clover of the new yard into which they have been turned are all unaware that man is struggling with the problem of economics.

Out there on and along the side road people live normally and honestly. Nature is as it was 20 years ago. Men may be down in the mouth but Omnipotence is going right along in the same old way. He keeps on furnishing air, water and earth. Try the side road for a Sunday drive "far from the maddening crowd," and at the close of day it will furnish you, on almost any summer evening, with a marvelous pageant of the sky.

Ask the man on the street, or the boy with a dog or the woman almanac addict why they call these the dog days and the usual reply is that dogs are apt to go mad at this season of the year. Ask the historian, the bibliophile, the scholar or astronomer and you will learn that the phrase originated with the ancients and that the superstition about mad dogs and human disorders during the sultry days of August is of astronomical origin.

Hot weather is good for neither man nor beast, a fact known to the ancients who, as was their wont, sought an explanation in the stars. They found it in Sirius, the dog star, which rose just before the sun. Sirius had cast a malignant spell upon the earth. Sirius was called Canicula by the Romans, but the superstition survived in the Roman dies caniculares, or dog days, which were reckoned to be 40 in number—20 before and 20 after the heliacal rising of the star. Sirius or Canicula staged its heliacal rising on July 23 for the Romans.

It would still be possible for the superstitious to blame poor Sirius, who, as far as we know, bites not nor barks, for the summer ailments of man and dog, if the unoffending star had not postponed its heliacal rising until the latter part of August for this age. It is gradually occuring later in the year and will eventually place the dog days in mid-winter.

BANKS TO CLOSE ON SATURDAY AUGUST 24

Cameron banks will be closed on Saturday August 24, this week, a legal holiday in Texas.

Saturday August 24th is the date on which the Constitutional Amendment election will be held in Texas. The banks ask their patrons and the public to make all arrangements for their currency and change by Friday.

It is announced that the banks will not be closed September 2 which is labor day. It has been the custom for years in Cameron for banks to remain open on Labor Day, a national holiday.

CITY TAX LEVY IS MADE BY ORDINANCE

Tuesday night the City Council by ordinance levied tax for 1935. The levy embraced 75c for public school, $1.00 poll and $1.50 general purposes. In the $1.50 for general fund expenses proper amounts were set up to take care of all bonds and interest. All sinking funds were proided for as prescribed by law.

The City Council also by ordinance instructed the tax collector to allow five per cent discount for 1935 (current) taxes if paid between August 20th an dSeptember 31st, Inc. No discount will be allowed on poll taxes.

According to Dan Tyson, city secretary, the city government is operating on a cash basis. All bonds and interest have been paid promptly.

Nine Votes Cast In Amendment Poll Up To Wednesday Noon

What is believed to be an all time low record for absentee voting is recorded here in the amendment election to be held Saturday.

Up to noon Wednesday only 9 votes had been cast. There is no interest and indications are the vote will be very light. No arrangements have been made to receive the returns election night. They will be available beginning Monday morning when the returns are made to the county clerk.

DISCOUNT ALLOWED ON CURRENT TAXES

The city government will allow 5 per cent discount on current taxes it was announced following the meeting on Tuesday night.

W. H. Stafford, city assessor and collector, was preparing to mail to property owners, the statement following the meeting. New tax receipts for the 1935 paying year will be in the hands of the collector by Friday of this week.

The city is operating on a cash basis with all obligations paid.

CAMERON LOSES OUT IN NEW DEAL RELIEF

The door to participation in Federal benefits both as to employment and relief, has been practically closed in Milam county, with a number of local men and women losing their jobs in the office.

Chief among the men to go is Billy Clark, administrator since the resignation of Rev. J. P. Love.

No more work will be given through the local office. Cameron has been badly treated in the administration of the aid system under the new plan. Headquarters has been established at Temple. Cotton picking which will be a mere gesture this year because of restricted acreage and low allotments to sell, will not give sufficient employment.

Solely there remains the direct re-

Under The COURT HOUSE DOME

By Bernice McLerran

Have you ever visited the Milam County jail? If not, you should go through it one time. Only one visit would make any sensible person think more than once before he did something that would put him there as an inmate. Although the jail is receiving a new coat of paint on the inside at this time and things are looking a little more bright, I would not like to spend the night inside these cells that have housed the great company who have run afoul the law in the last half century.

Citizens were expressing belief that Milam county and especially Cameron have been badly treated in the matter of road improvements. They recall with disappointment the fiasco of the Cameron to Burlington road, built after more than two years struggle to obtain a right of way and lasting three months. Now it is reported that District Engineer Blair at Bryan has demanded 100 feet more right of way from Cameron to Minerva, another project pending for the past 2 years or more. If this additional right of way is granted what kind of road will be built? With one exception there is no concrete in the county. In most cases roadways here are little better than proving grounds for stout motors.

Thieves have been operating in the city for the past weeks or so. City Marshal Gene Smith, known to all criminals as the man who never takes a backward step, reported that recently a bag of medical instruments were stolen from the car of Dr. A. S. Epperson; some silverware was stolen from the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Woodruff and Mrs. Sam McDermott lost her purse containing some money and a coat, stolen from her car while parked at the L. L. Blaylock home. Cars have been rifled while folks were attending theatres in the city.

Recently Constable Colvin at Rockdale made an arrest and turned his prisoner over to Federal authorities, charging him with possessing liquor on which no taxes had been paid. It has been only a short time since officers arrested and charged men who possessed liquor on which a tax had been paid. Subsequent developments resulted in acquital of one defendant tried under the Dean Law. Possessing liquor in any circumstance, whether tax paid or not, is an offense under Texas law. One wonders if the

FACULTY IS READY FOR FALL TERM HERE

Monday September 9 has been set by the Cameron School Board as the date on which the 1935 fall term of school will begin in Cameron.

Superintendent Perrin said Tuesday all was in readiness for the opening of schools. A number of faculty changes have been made this year.

Miss Helen Flinn, member of the Yoe high teaching staff, has asked for a leave of absence for one year to attend the University of Texas to obtain her M. A. degree.

Miss Margaret Blaelaud who has taught for five years in the schools at Elgin and who has an M. A. degree from the University will take the place temporarily vacated by Miss Flinn.

DYNAMITE AT BRIDGE

No explanation has been made satisfactory to Sheriff R. M. Kennedy who reports the discovery of 27 stick of dynamite hidden away under the Brazos highway bridge near Gause Tuesday night.

Fishermen camping near the bridge found the explosives and notified officers. Ten of the sticks were on the ground and 17 in a burlap bag.

Immediately Sheriff Kennedy and Deputy Clarence McCall began an investigation but have not reported a satisfactory solution of the matter. It is believed the dynamite was cached and not meant for destruction of the bridge.

The bridge crosses the Brazos at the site of Old Fort Nashville, site of the Sterling C. Roberson colony.

J. T. MILLER BURIED AT LITTLE RIVER

Funeral services for Julian T. Miller, 79, were conducted from the Little River Church Friday afternoon by Dr. Clark, pastor of the Little River Baptist Church. Interment was made in the Little River Cemetery.

Mr. Miller was a rural route mail carrier in this county for about 20 years. He moved to Elgin a short time ago to be with his niece, Mrs. John Puckett and a sister, Mrs. Bryan. He died in Elgin on Thursday night after a few days illness. He was brought back to Cameron for burial by Leland Green, undertaker, on Friday morning. He was born in Alabama, but had lived most of his life in this county.

Mr. Miller in his long residence here made many friends. He was one of the pioneers and his passing is mourned by hundreds who knew him in life.

Good Morning!

For some time we have neglected to thank the many who have expressed appreciation for the new publishing hours of The Herald. These expressions have come from readers and advertisers alike. "I would not give a penny for week end advertising that failed to reach consumers before Friday," said a merchant. "I read my Herald Thursday morning and it is much better than getting my paper on Friday or Saturday," said a reader. These are representative comments on our new policy.

The Herald coverage of Milam county occurs on Thursday morning and not Saturday. Therefore we say Good Morning! Every Thursday morning.

VOTERS HEAR PLEA FRIDAY AUG. 23RD

Repeal forces in Milam county will stage a county wide rally on the Court House Lawn Friday night July 23, the day preceeding the vote on the proposed amendment to the constitution.

Hon. J. C. Duvall of Fort Worth, a member of the Texas Legislature, will deliver the address, a plea to Milam county voters to vote for repeal on Saturday. Mr. Duvall became famous as a sponsor of the racing law in Texas and in celebration rode ahors e from Austin to Fort Worth. He is a forceful speaker.

Hon. B. P. Matocha, chairman for the repeal forces, will preside. He has arranged for band music and the crowd will be entertained preceeding the speaking which will be in the open. A loud speaker will be used.

The local committee has made as thorough campaign as possible in the limited time allotted and urges all voters favoring an end to prohibition in Texas to go to the polls and vote Saturday. The amendment proposed prohibits the return of the open saloon.

Federals Get Man Caught With Untaxed Liquor As Dean Law Left at 'Altar'

The Dean Law was abandoned last week in Milam county in the case of Hoke Southard arrested August 11 on his farm 4 miles north of Rockdale by Constable W. C. Colvin.

Southard was lodged in the county jail and the following day federal officers took him in charge to await action of the federal jury in Austin. , Constable Colvin has been prominently identified with liquor law enforcements in recent months. When the grand jury under instructions from the District Attorney ordered raids on bars in Cameron and Rockdale, a quantity of untaxed liquor was found in Rockdale. A woman taken in the raid drank poison, but recovered.

In the trial of N. J. Green later the jury returned a verdict of acquital. Two other cases are now pending and may be disposed of after Texas takes a poll on next Saturday.

Colvin went to the Moody farm to arrest Southard for assault. While there he is said to have found 10 gallons of whiskey. The constable said he found a complete distillery with large brick furnace and 500 gallon cooler. He confiscated 300 pounds of sugar and a Ford V-8.

Juries thus far have declined to convict for liquor law violations whether the cases involved taxed or untaxed liquor. The only solution, some have said, is to call in the federal officers, who take men making liquor on which no tax is paid but who decline to make arrests of dealers licensed by the government.

38,678 Bales Tax Free Cotton Allowed County In Allotments for 1935

In 1934 Milam County was allowed to gin tax free 19,339,253 pounds of lint cotton. This amounted to 38,678 bales of cotton weighing 500 pounds.

In 1935 the allowance will be slightly above the 1934 figure, it was pointed out. Thus far certificates to gin tax free cotton allotted to the county call for 19,361,158 pounds, or a total of 38,722 bales.

If private estimates of the crop and general conditions bear out prospects, the county will produce only about 30,000 bales. In this case an excess of allotment certificates will occur. In fact, 8,722 bales of lint will be paid for but neither produced nor ginned. Farmers are allowed to dispose of these certificates at whatever price they desire. If placed in the pool the certificates bring 5c per pound.

Farmers would be saved , many thousands of dollars if these certificates could be adjusted to the crop demands of each farm with no excesses occuring.

In the event no farmer had to pay a tax of $30 a bale on cotton produced over his limited lint yield as covered in contracts, the government would lose heavily in taxes needed to keep up the huge expenditures.

A farmer producing 13 bales of cotton and allowed only 3250 pounds of tax free lint would receive 9c for his cotton because a tax of $30 a bale on the excess would leave him 6c a pound for half of his crop. However, the surplus would not be reduced, but the farmer, and many of them poor tenants, would be hit hard. Rental checks are small because the average allowance per acre is small.

Judge and Mrs. Graham Gillis and son, Billie Gillis, are home from a few weeks visit with his sister, Mrs. McDonald and husband at Seymore. Mrs. McDonald will be remembered as Miss Bessie Gillis, and lived in Cameron many years.

BAPTISTS TO BEGIN REVIVAL MEETING

Cameron Baptist will begin a revival meeting here on September 15 which is Sunday and will continue the meeting until Sunday September 29.

Rev. C. Y. Dossey, state evangelist will preach with R. N. Duckworth leading the music.

N. D. Timmerman, pastor extends a cordial invitation for all to attend this revival.

MILAM THEATER GETS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Extensive improvements in the interior of the Milam Theater were being made this week with plans to complete by Thursday.

Stanley H. Swift was not content to modernize this show house but was making some improvements to keep the Cameron Theatre up to the minute as a modern play house.

The purpose of these improvements at the Milam is to increase the seating capacity in the balcony. The projection room has been lowered.

Mr. Swift will have a combined seating capacity of 1000 in his theatres. The Cameron and Milam Teatres are Cameron's most valuable entertainment assets and about the only means available thus far to entertain visitors. Mr. Swift is to be congratulated on his progressive planning for your comfort and entertainment.

Washington News For Milam County Farmers

From Cameron Herald's Washington Bureau

DAVIS PRAISES AAA.

FUNDAMENTAL AIMS.

COTTON BATTLEGROUND.

EXPORT DIFFICULTIES.

LAUDS FARMERS' TARIFF.

It is a good thing for farmers to keep in mind the real purpose of the AAA, which is not short crops or large crops, but an increased income to the farmers of the United States.

Mr. Chester C. Davis, Administrator of the AAA, delivered a speech last week at Stoneville, Miss., addressed to cotton growers and discussing the problems of the staple, but illustrating the farm program as it applies to other basic crops.

Because the opposition is concentrating upon the cotton program, attacking the processing tax and assailing the loss of foreign markets, it is interesting to read Mr. Davis' rejoinder. Briefly, we recount the salient points of his argument.

Two fundamentals are involved: (1) a sustained fair income to the producer and (2) conservation of soil fertility, one of the nation's most vital resources. The basic principle, boldly inscribed in the Adjustment Act, is "that American farmers are entitled to enjoy from their labor a living standard comparable to that enjoyed by other producing elements of society." Consequently, the price of a bale of cotton (or other farm product) is not to be its value to the export trade but its value to the man who produces it; not what it is worth to a Brazilian peon, a Sudanese sheik or a Chinese coolie.

Therefore cotton exports must be studied in the light of a sustained income for producers and while important are not worth the sacrifice of the two fundamentals. If necessary loss of exports is to be preferred to a price that means starvation to producers and robbery of the soil while it is shocking to think of putting cotton on a domestic basis, thus throwing families onto government care, farmers must remember that "with the aid of various controls over production which corporate industry exercised, non-agricultural employers cut down production and maintained price levels to the extent that millions of people were plowed out of factories and onto government aid."

Mr. Davis points out that the agricultural program came into being when prices for farm products had gone into a tailspin, farm buying power had collapsed, factories were idle, banks were in a panic and people dismayed. The policy of raising prices was adopted with full knowledge that there would be some toes trod upon and that owners would make an outcry. The clamor of textile and flour millers, packers and other processors, accustomed to buying cheap raw materials, was anticipated.

Much argument, says Mr. Davis, is given to the loss of export trade, which is blamed upon higher prices of American cotton, as there always has been plenty of cotton. Foreign nations, it is said, are substituting cheaper growths, but Mr. Davis points out that we had difficulties in keeping up exports long before the Triple A, and they touched many commodities. He cites these barriers —tariffs, embargoes and quotas.

Getting down to cotton, the speaker says that in 1926 "our biggest cotton export year," the December 1 average price was 12 1-2 cents a pound. In 1932, with an average price of 6 1-2 cents, our exports were two million bales less. Representatives from Germany, our largest cotton customer for years, have been pleading for our cotton but they "didn't argue price." They said they have no exchange to pay us for our cotton unless they can sell us something in return."

Down to figures: In 1934-35 our sales of cotton to Germany dropped enough to account for 35 per cent of our total decreased exports. Egypt and India also had decreases but Brazil, says Mr. Davis, gives the answer. True enough, Brazil sold cotton but "we find that Germany bought Brazil's cotton because special arrangements with Brazil and Germany made it possible for Germany to pay for that cotton with goods she shipped to Brazil."

Concluding Mr. Davis said: "Unless this country wishes to face permanent injury to its cotton export trade it must face the fundamental fact that we cannot sell unless we buy. The critics can go on telling the farmers that they should junk their control programs, maintain tariff protection for industrialists and resume permanently their production at starvation prices for export markets that are gone. But if the growers are as smart as I think they are, they will not listen to them. When this nation wants to abolish the tariff system which impedes export trade, then the farmers will talk about discarding their adjustment programs. But unless I miss my guess, not before."

PICNIC

Myrtle Stidham and Clara Baskin were hostesses to a number of their friends on Wednesday night. A picnic was held at the Wilson-Ledbetter Park with Mrs. Julian Baskin and Mrs. Grady Stidham chaperoning the young people.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE

As a compliment to Mrs. Homer Plentl, recently wed, a miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Winonah Slaughter on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Plentl before her marriage was Miss Joy Lantrip. She and her husband lived in Cameron and were well known. They were married in Franklin on May 5, and after their marriage resided in Alvin, where he was employed. They have been visiting in Cameron and will leave soon for Lake Charles, Louisiana, where Mr. Plentl is employed.

At the party Tuesday afternoon, games of bridge and buncho were enjoyed. The hostess carried out a color scheme of lavender and green. Centering the dining room table, a miniature bride and groom stood on a reflector around which was queen's wreath. Other flowers for decorations were perennial sweet peas and periwinkles.

Plate favors were small corsages of floral decorations used and the honoree was presented with a shoulder corsage of flowers used. Grape juice and cake were served to the following guests: Mrs. Cyrus Miller, Nancy Newton, Alice Rylander, Katherine Mode, Nona Weems, Grace Markham, Theresa Manning, Carolyn Porter, Inez Smith, Ray Fanning, Dorothea Kubecka, Serena, Helen Dierr, Billie Marak, Regina Moseley, Velma Reese, Mrs. Eugene Knipp, Varna Beth Beard, Mrs. D. # Open Saloon and Prohibition

The word, EXTREME, is defined by Webster as the utmost limit or degree from the mean. An immoderate degree or condition. Heat and cold are extremes. We have gone through both extremes of the liquor question, namely, the open saloon and prohibition.

The open saloon was not bad in its inception, but became an imposition when certain interests or classes took control. As an institution it was removed from the moral and industrial life of the American people temporarily and it can come back back by the will of the people, unless its return is forbidden by the constitution. The open saloon is one of the extremes of the liquor question.

Thereafter prohibition came into being in all splendor and glory. It was pictured as a sort of haven of virtue, peace and contentment. Life of prohibition in practice was of short duration. Founded at the outset on a wrong conception by well meaning people who had the welfare of others at heart. But saintly people were not without errors. The natural consequences were that after about fifteen years of its existence, the very people who set up this institution, rebelled against it, and in practice it stands today as a skeleton stripped of its glammor and future promises. Although it is not respected, it is on the statute books. Prohibition is the other extreme of the liquor question.

The medium course between two extremes is repeal. Experience teaches us that the medium course is always beneficial, charitable, practical and sane. A vote for repeal will serve two purposes. It will do away with prohibition and banish the open saloon. How will repeal abolish the two extremes? Section 1 of the amendment repeals the present provision of the state-wide prohibition. Immediately following the repeal clause under Article 16, Section 20 (a) "The open saloon shall be and is hereby prohibited." Upon the adoption of the repeal amendment, the banishment of the open saloon will be placed in the constitution.

Repeal strikes a telling blow to illicit traffic. Unlawful acts will be substituted of lawful ones. There will be greater respect for all laws. Liquor, unclean and unlawfully distilled, by those who should not, containing poison and driving its victim into madness, will be outlawed by repeal. The revenue of the state, counties and cities to a great extent, will be replenished. It is the wish of the citizens that law and order prevail, and repeal is the only solution, because either one of the extremes mentioned proved to be failures. Those who make and traffic illicit liquor will generally not vote for repeal because it will affect their business.

When Christ, the Son of God, came to earth to teach the people the present moral standards of the Christian world, his first miracle was to change water into wine. We may in our conceited knowledge say it was grape juice, but the Holy Bible, written by inspired men, says it was wine. Without reservation we humbly accept the teachings of the Good Book, as it is written.

The Constitution is the bulwark of liberty. After the Bible it is the most cherished document handed down to the American people. The ways of the fathers of this country were constitutional. Washington used liquor, and whoever makes a trip to Mt. Vernon will find liquor glasses, containers, etc., carefully preserved. If we vote for repeal we are not compelled to drink, but constitutionally and morally we do not take from our neighbor what belongs to him. Our conscience will be at ease, and at the same time we are practicing the principles of Washington, Woodrow Wilson, Roosevelt and thousands of other great Americans. Such a vote is in conformity to the teaching of the Good Book and that alone is a consolation.

Under the present prohibition laws, it is unlawful for any person to have in his possession a formula or recipe for making liquor for beverage purposes. (See Penal Code Art. 682). The penalty for such violation is from one to five years in the penitentiary, and in the event the offender is over the age of twenty-five years, the suspended sentence law is not applicable. Nearly all encyclopedias contain formulas and recipes for making liquor.

A vote on August 24th is a vote against the open saloon and prohibition. Thousands will join the great army of fathers and mothers, who, before the noble experiment, were conscientious prohibitionists, and with them cast your vote for repeal.

A vote for repeal is a vote for law and order.

experience of the District Attorney in the acquittal case leads him to doubt the advisability of testing public sentiment further under the Dean Law. It is practically certain that no further efforts will be made until Texas takes a poll on August 24.

"Now we don't want this in the paper"—every newspaper reporter has heard the dozen of times—but at a way it might be better if the newspapers printed the story behind the "facts" and nothing but the truth because in the long it goes the rounds of all the waggoner tongue it's as "anything but the truth."

There are ways and ways of getting the other fellow's money. E. N. Maddox was in the Justice of Peace's office several morning ago and was telling how a woman tried to "gyp" him out of his money. Several days ago Maddox was trading at a suburban store. A woman was standing in the store. She approached Maddox and "shot him a line" as to his receiving a letter in a few days which would make him happy, etc. She finally induced him to give her a nickel and told him to roll it in the palm of his hand and give it back to her so that she might put it in her purse. As Mr. Maddox opened his purse she grabbed at the bills, but the didn't get away with them. Maddox was quick enough to save his money.

Cameron is badly in need of the Time That Court House clock is about the biggest liar over there.

You have heard of a person returning and giving themselves over to the law for a crime they committed, sometimes years before, and got away with. Maybe some day Cameron will have a returning of conscience stricken man as Milam County has her share of the unsolved murder cases in the District Attorney's office can be found weapons used by the men who committed murder and escaped.

On Friday it was reported from the office of County Clerk that only two absentee votes had been cast for the election here August 24. It is the popular belief that Milam County will vote wet in the coming election.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bell of Dallas, spent Monday in Cameron with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Spiller, en route to Rio Grande Valley where they will spend some time fishing. Mrs. Bell formerly was Miss Emily Spiller, and was reared in Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Monfrik are the proud parents of a fine daughter that arrived at the Cameron Hospital Thursday morning August 15. She has been named Katherine Monfrik. This little lady tipped the beam at 8 3-4 pounds. Both mother and babe are doing nicely and have been taken home.

It Was Dry In '86 Says Old News Item

Herald readers will appreciate this item taken from the Taylor County News in 1886 and sent for publication by Mr. Hardin of Cameron:

"The weather has been so dry here for the past three weeks that the wells are all empty and the fish in the creeks are carrying toadstools for parasols to keep the sun from burning their backs. Water is getting so scarce that Baptists and Campbellites are beginning to favor baptism by sprinkling, and they have quit turning up their noses at the Presbyterians. Potato bugs are crossing the creeks like the Israelites crossed the Red Sea, and for the same purpose—in search of water. A prominent prohibitionist has ordered a case of beer from Decatur, not necessarily as a beverage, but as an evidence that he wants lather to shave himself."

Mrs. Ernest Beard and children of Hillsboro have returned to their home after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Henderson.

BLACK WIDOW'S BITE FATAL TO H. MUNSCH

MARLIN, Aug. 19.— Henry Munsch, 37, Rosebud undertaker, died in Marlin hospital Sunday night as a result of a black widow spider bite received at the home of his father, H. W. Munsch was well known in Central Texas, being associated with the old baseball league where he acquired the title of Lefty. He was an undertaker at Pilot Point nine years, coming to Rosebud with McInnis and Nicholson funeral home.

Hillie Marek, local mortician for the Coleman Funeral Home, was called to Rosebud to assist in the embalming. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

Every once in awhile somebody somewhere gets the bright idea of starting a fad in athletics—usually a take-off on some well-established sport. Five years ago it was miniature golf, a little before that it was bowling, even though bowling in a true sense of the sport has been continued with steady patronage since the bowling fever of some eight years ago. Now the new version of baseball in the form of a fad, has swept the country under the name of softball. Everywhere men, women and even in some places the older children are playing the game with all the seriousness of baseball.

Softball, which is really a combination of speedball, kittenball, indoor ball, and other variations of the games as formerly played, is now a nationally known sport with rules drawn up by an association just as in any professional sport. The majority of the games are played at night so that the older gentlemen can play without haing to gain leave from office work. Then, too, there is no broiling sun at night to make the game hazardous. The older gents take unusual interest in the game throughout the country, and although the gam eis faster and calls for more running than baseball, they consider their batting averages and fielding records in as serious a manner at do the pro ball players.

St. Louis is probably the foremost softball city in the country at present, with many parks drawing large crowds. George Sisler, old time ball player of note, has interests in a number of parks in the Middle West, and it is said that he profits greatly in them, particularly the one that he owns outright in St. Louis. Maybe the great downfall in the 1935 attendance at the home games of the Browns is a result of Sisler's softball attendance.

Miniature golf lasted about a year. Will softball last beyond the present season? Hardly. But we will say that, because in most cases, excluding the West Coast, the players offer their services free and the patrons are the ones who are charged for the amusement instead of the participants as in Toy Golf, the game has so far done much good in the form of charity games, etc. Pony Golf never had this chance.

Now comes the time of the year for the annual selection of major league all-rookie teams. The custom in the selection of these freshmen stars usually is to include those rooks who joined the clubs not earlier than the latter part of the previous season. We, for the first time, have dared to pick a squad. We don't know where we will find anybody nodding agreement as his eyes pass over the group selected, but we are going to take a shot at it anyway.

1935 All-Rookie Team.

First Base—Phil Cavaretta, Cubs.
Second Base—Bozie Berger, Indians.
Shortstop—Billy Meyers, Reds.
Third Base—Lew Riggs, Reds.
Right Field—Wally Moses, Athletics.
Center Field—Jake Powell, Senators.
Catcher—Jimmy O'Dea, Cubs.
Catcher—Wally Stephenson, Cubs.
Pitcher—Vito Tamulis, Yankees.
Pitcher—Cy Blanton, Pirates.
Pitcher—Cydell Castleman, Giants.
Pitcher—Whitley Wilshere, Athletics.
Pitcher—Bucky Walters, Phillies.

Starting at first base, Phil Cavaretta gets the call over Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgreen of the Red Sox. Dahlgren is the superior fielder, which may be credited to his extra years of experience but Cavaretta, the better hitter of the two, handles himself well and is fast becoming another Charlie Grimm around the initial sack. The race at second base is close, with Berger narrowly getting the call over Alex Kampouris, of the Reds. Although Kamporis' work has forced Gordon Slade to the sidelines, Berger has also shoved to the sidelines throughout the season all who would take his job from him. Berger is slightly the more valuable hitter.

At shortstop and third base the Reds, however, do get the call. Billy Meyers has already been made team captain of the Reds, in spite of his newness as a member of the club, and his work at short has been dependable. His closest competitor is undoubtedly Roy Hughes, Berger's teammate, who is not a regular only because there is a gent by the name of Bill Knickerbocker, one of the best shortstoppers in the game, on the same club. Lew Riggs gets the nod at third without a close competitor, giving the Reds the outstanding rookie infield of the past several years.

The American League presents the three outstanding outfielders, with Wally Moses heading the pack. Moses is hitting some thirty points higher than is necessary for him to hold his job over Lou Finney, and is the fastest lead-off man in the league. Jake Powell has been hitting consistently over .300 in spite of the oft occuring leg injury that causes him to be delirious with pain whenever the leg is strained by a heavy cut at the ball or a long drive in the outfield. He is second only to Buddy Myer as the most valuable man on his team. Rip Radcliff gets the call by a narrow margin over Ival Goodman and Jesse Hill. Radcliff is also a fast elad off man, and in spite of his position in the batting order has been consistently a leading swatter on the Sox.

The Cubs provide the outstanding catchers in the rook class this year in Jimmy O'Dea and Wally Stephenson, very capable understudies to the veteran Gabby Harnett. O'Dea, up from AAA ball is usually inserted at the clean-up position when he is in the game, so valuable is his timely swatting. Stevenson is doing remarkably well for a man without either class A or AA experience. He was fired once this year for disturbing the peace of the club, but was quickly reinstated upon apology. The Senators, with Jack Redmond, the best handler of pitchers in the 1935 crop of newcomers, provide the Cubs with their American League competition. Neither Redmond nor his teammate, however, are any great shucks at the plate. Tom Heath of the Browns also gets mention..

In the pitching department we find that top honors go to Cy Blanton and Vic Tamulis. Blanton has been the chief reason for the Pirates' stay in the first division, and has won more games than any other freshman. Tamulis is the best of the American group. Though erratic, he has supplied the Yanks with some excellent work, enabling the veterans, Allen, Gomez and Ruffin, their needed rest without the fear that their good work wasn't being carried on. Wilshere looks like another of the famous Connie Mack left handers in the making, while Castleman's position with the Giants has been strikingly similar to that of Tamulis with the Yanks. Some will say that Silent John Whitehead should have been placed on the list instead of Bucky Walters, but the records show that Whitehead bogged down after the opening spurt and has had trouble winning since then, even with good backing. Walters has won many games with little or no team behind him in his first year as hurler.

In all, we find the National League has the best of the rookies this season, and it shows it by leading in every department except the outfield.

Joe Louis carried out our prediction by making mince meat of Levinsky before the battle was even under way. At this writing there has been no arrangement decided upon for a Baer-Louis bout, but is is assured that whenever and wherever it is held it will be the greatest drawing card in the past several years of boxing history, even though it would be a non-title go. The fight should be a final test of Louis' ability, while Baer would be striving to maintain what little reputation he has left in the fight world.

agreement. Judgment and condemnation should not follow until there is in hand ample evidence to support the charge.

The Herald is anxious to see the dawn of international peace. It will be a long time coming and before it comes there must exist throughout the world, on the part of all people a willingness to be charitable towards others. As long as newspapers and experts speculate as to what other nations "intend" and insist upon being prepared for all possibilities the world will continue to witness armament races which will eventually bring on certain conflict.

We realize the small influence of our voices and the tiny part that the people of Cameron play in shaping world affairs. Nevertheless, in democratic countries, where the people rule, and where foreign policies are shaped, very often by selfish politicians, in accordance with the will of the people, it is necessary that the voters be well-intentioned as well as well-informed when questions arise with foreign powers.

A "Public Purpose"

The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati recently decided that the United States Government could not condemn private property for the purpose of constructing low-cost housing prospects and removing objectionable slums because this did not constitute a "public use."

It has been planned to remove unsanitary and improper living quarters at Louisville, Ky., and in place thereof to build reasonable housing facilities within the reach of laborers and others with low incomes, thus improving their places of living. The eminent Federal judge decided that "the construction of sanitary houses to sell or lease to low-salaried workers or residents of slum districts" was not a "public use."

We rather feel that such a construction is too narrow for the present day. It is undeniable that slum districts are prolific breeders of vice and crime. They are menaces to public health, as well. When private initiative, demanding a good return on money invested, sometimes, an exorbitant return is unable to make the improvements, it would seem to us to be within the range of government, if it is operated for the public welfare, to meet the needs.

Human happiness must come first in this country. Old concepts of law or property rights must be adjusted so that the lives and happiness of families, including women and children, be promoted. In the above case the Government was not confiscating private property it out to condemn but would have paid the owner its fair value. To allow one private owner of property to stop a great improvement, carrying with it better homes for hundreds of families, is to allow theoretical conformity to traditions to become a menace to social reform and betterment.

Going Back To School.

There are hundreds of young people in Milam county who must decide whether to go back to school this fall. Luckily, most of them will be wise and continue their training, but unfortunately, there are some who will turn a deaf ear to the counsel of age and seek to make money at once.

It is, we admit, a temptation to young men and women. To get out for one's self and earn independent support is a rosy prospect until one has tried it for a decade or two. However, by that time the opportunity to go to school has vanished, and it is too late to wish for a better education.

The Herald can do little to persuade errant pupils that their best job this fall and winter is to be found in the school, but whatever little can be done along this line we want to do. We urge all who possibly can to continue through high school and college. It means money later on; don't forget it. Even if the family burden might be lifted slightly today by the addition of another worker it will be eased more in the future years, after the process of education is completed.

Indignant Mr. Hurley.

One of the lobbyists called before the Senate Committee for investigation was Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, in the Hoover Administration. He testified that he had been paid $100,000 by the Associated Gas and Electric Company for his activities at the National Capitol, including opposition to the Public Utility Holding Company Bill.

Mr. Hurley resented the Committee investigating his activities. He declared that he had been singled out because he was a Republican, overlooking the fact that the next lobbyist examined was Mr. Joseph P. Tumulty, one time private secretary to President Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Hurley should not be overrighteous. The Senate Committee tried unsuccessfully for a long time to reach Mr. Howard C. Hopson, the President of the A. G. and E. Company. Mr. Hopson heads the Company which spent hundreds of thousands of dollars fighting the Utility Bill, including in its methods the sending of hundreds of telegrams with names of people signed to them that knew nothing about the message.

Earnings of the R. F. C.

When the Reconstruction Corporation started making its loans, back in the days of the Hoover administration, there were many prophets who firmly declared that the loans would never be repaid. The Government, said these critics, would lose all its money eventually.

A recent report from Chairman Jesse H. Jones presents a better picture. During the fiscal year ending June 30th the R. F. C. made a profit of $43,288,562. Money repaid the Corporation exceeded by $118,062,819 the comparatively small disbursements. Assets and liabilities were around four and a half billion dollars.

Of course, the R. F. C. will lose money on some of its loans. Any agency handling the huge volume of money it did would likewise experience some bad debts, especially when some of the loans were made with the idea of "saving" the banking, or insurance, or some other "situation."

Chairman Jones feels that the profits will in the long run make good any losses. "When this thing is settled up," he says, "in ten or fifteen years I think our earnings will offset our losses."

Postponed a Month

The issue of war or peace between Italy and Ethiopia has been delayed about a month by the recent action of the League of Nations. This represents very little gain in itself, because weather conditions in Ethiopia make military operations practically impossible until September.

The league gained some moral prestige, however, by its resolute facing of the very ticklish problem. This was due largely to firm insistence by Great Britain, and tardy support for such action from the French. Italy made an apparent yielding to the possibility of arbitration, but what Mussolini will eventually do remains to be seen.

The same can be said of the League's future action. Its council will assemble again early in September. By that time the arbitration may have improved the problem or not. At any rate the League has taken cognizance of its responsibilities, and if Italy defies the League the powers of that organization will consider the next step in September.

Henry Ford's Estate.

When the proposed Federal inheritance tax was being considered by a Senate committee its probable effect upon the estate of Henry Ford was considered. This automobile magnate is supposed to own $354,000,000 of the stock of the Ford Motor Company, the other $246,000,000 belonging to his son Edsel. Under the proposed House bill $270,000,000 would be taken from a $300,000,000 estate, which would be paid over a series of years.

The result of this according to Robert H. Jackson, of the Bureau of Internal Fevenue "would be a part of the equity now represented by the common stock would be sold to other interests or to the public. . . . The effect of this would be to convert what is now a family industry into a widely owned one, and to permit the public to share in the future earnings of an enterprise to the building of which public patronage has made a substantial contribution."

Opposing such a drastic attack the Republican Senator Arthur J. Vandenburg, of Michigan, contended: "There need be no speculation as to what will happen to the great Ford industrial enterprise under the proposed tax confiscation . . . Bluntly it will be driven into the hands of Wall Street, or its equivalent; and the money changers who have striven vainly for years past to achieve this end and whom this administration says it proposes to drive from the temple, will have been handed the dominion which in no other manner would be obtained."

The Truth Must Be Known.

Most of us have faith in the willingness of the average citizen to do the right thing when the truth is apparent but the hardest problem of today is the discovery of the truth.

The task is not so much the exposition of the truth to others as it is the search for and acceptance of it by ourselves. Most of us are inclined to believe that we have the right side and that the other man has the wrong. The danger comes from our ready acceptance of accepted truth without seeking to understand the other side.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'doless.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

Sunday School Lesson

by HENRY-RADCLIFFE

THE GREAT APOSTLE

International Sunday School Lesson for September 1, 1935.

GOLDEN TEXT: "In all things I give you an example, that so laboring ye ought to help the weak." Acts 20: 35.

(Lesson Text: Acts 20:33-35; Phillipians 4:4-13).

In the city of Tarsus, famous for its wealth, industry and learning, there was born about the same time as Jesus a Jewish boy who was named Saul. He was a Pharisee and brought up in the traditional Jewish fashion, tempered somewhat by the cosmopolitan atmosphere of his native city. His father was a Roman citizen, which status passed on to his son, standing him in good service in later years. The boy Saul was trained at Jerusalem in the meaning and interpretation of the Old Testament, having the great Gamaliel for one of his teachers.

In early years the Christian faith encountered the opposition and persecution of the Jews. When Stephen was stoned, becoming the first martyr of the Christian faith, the young man Saul was a witness, if not an instigator, of the lawless act. At any rate, he soon became a powerful opponent of Christianity, excelling others in his zeal to exterminate what was deemed a blasphemous heresy. He started to Damascus, to reach the Christians there, but on his way came face to face with Jesus and was converted. From that time on Paul completely reversed his attitude and put as much energy into spreading the new faith as he formerly had in trying to obliterate it.

After three years retirement and meditation in Arabia, Paul returned to Palestine. Within a few years he was brought to Antioch by Barnabas and shortly thereafter began his great missionary activity, which did more to bring Christianity to the western world than the labors of any other man. Three great missionary tours consumed his years and left as their fruit well established Christian churches throughout Asia Minor, Greece and other regions. The book of Acts contains brief account of these epoch-making journeys, giving us short outlines of some of the great sermons preached by this enthusiastic missionary.

When Paul first appeared on the scene Christianity had not yet been definitely separated from Judaism. At that time there was, as Dr. Wilbur M. Smith points out, "no Church law, no Church program, and no formula for the conduct of Christian believers. The deeper consequences of accepting Christ as they related to personal life, domestic life, business pursuits, national patriotism, and the great problems of society of the days of Paul, had not yet been stated. The Christian Church awaited some powerful genius to arise in its midst, who, by the leading of the Holy Spirit, would guide the Church out of its confinements into a glorious vision of its possibilities and powers. This man appeared in Saul of Tarsus, and how he came to be the greatest single Christian that ever appeared on earth, is one of the most fascinating stories ever recorded."

As an author Paul wrote much of the New Testament, thirteen epistles constituting the major part. First and second Thessalonians probably came first from Corinth, then the two letters to the Corinthians. Galatians followed and the Romans considered it his greatest epistle. While in prison at Rome he wrote the remaining seven. In these writings Paul laid down the principle theological tenets of the Christian church.

"Paul is the only man in the New Testament, except Jesus, whom we would immediately enroll among the great," says Charles E. Jefferson. "By the mass of his personality, he won a place above all others. What the second century did, the twentieth century is doing likewise. It is giving the supreme place to Paul. More books have been written about Paul within the last fifty years than about all the other apostles combined. The ages have produced a great company of thinkers and hearers, of saints and martyrs, but none of them has been able to write his name above the name of Paul."

"Of all the men of the first century, incomparably great was the Apostle Paul," says Sir William M. Ramsay. "No other man exercised anything like so much power as he did in moulding the future of the Empire. Among the imperial ministers of the period there appeared none that had any claim to the name of statesman except Seneca; and Seneca fell as far short of Paul in practical influence and intellectual insight as he did moral character. Had it not been for Paul—if one may guess at what might have been—no man would now remember Roman and Greek civilization. Barbarism proved too powerful for the Graeco-Roman civilization unaided by the new religious band, and every generation thru which that civilization was preserved or interest in it maintained, either is now or has been in some essential part of its course, Christian."

For your Health's sake . . .

HEAT

Your ENTIRE House

If you are susceptible to colds, and most people have from two to three each winter, you owe it to your health to heat your home adequately as a protection against sudden changes in temperature which are a contributory cause of colds.

With the entire house properly heated and ventilated, you have greater comfort and the satisfaction of knowing that you are taking the precaution of guarding your family's health.

One single illness to a member of your family will cost you far more in money and suffering than the few dollars you will spend for adequate heat to combat winter colds. So look over your heating equipment now. Some might need repairing. Some might need replacing altogether with modern equipment. Whatever it takes, do it now, for August is the opportune time to buy advantageously modern gas heating equipment. For your health's sake, heat your entire home.

ANSWERS TO PROBLEMS FROM WRITERS

Dear Louisa:

I am to be married this month. My fiance is quite able to support me but it seems a shame to give up the good job I have had for five years. I wonder if the extra money I would make would be more important than putting the time on my new home which my husband is giving me for a wedding present.

ALINE G.

Answer:

If you rjob is just routine work and if the money is your only inducement to keep on working, I advise you most earnestly to give up your job and put your time and thoughts on making a charming home and rearing a pleasant family. Such a course will reward you many times more than a few dollars in the bank.

If your husband is struggling to get along and had to pinch pennies, my advice might be different. Under such circumstances it would probably be better to help him along financially for a few years, at least. But in your case, you are not worried about finances. Your husband presents you with a nice home and believe me, my dear, this thing of keeping a home lovely and comfortable, of making social contacts for your husband's and your own pleasure, as well as interest, is not such a casual job as it seems. And if you put off having your family very long, sometimes one never has a family. This is really a tragedy, for life is not complete without children.

So, I say, give up your job with its few extra dollars and you will find hundreds of worthwhile ways to spend your time until the family arrives.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

You wrote a letter a while back saying that every one should take a vacation. But what would you do if every time you planned to go away some relative would write that they were coming down to spend a few weeks with you? That has happened three times this summer and I have had to unpack my things and go back to the kitchen, as we have no servant.

If your visitors had been our own family I could have written them not to come, but my husband would have been awfully hurt if I had refused to entertain his people.

H. E. M.

Answer:

Really, H. E. M., I have never understood why anybody who invited themselves places should feel hurt if their hostess asked them to put off their visit until later as it suited her better to have them then. It seems to me that if one knows a person well enough to invite themselves at a specified time that the person should be intimate enough with them to let them know whether it suits or not.

Personally, I think any one has a fearful crust to write, "I am coming down Monday," unless they add, "if it is convenient," no matter how intimate they are or how close kin they may be.

If your husband is particularly anxious to see, for example, has a sister and she wishes to come just as you are planning a trip, why not write and tell her how sorry you are that you will be away just at that time, but how delighted John will be to have her while you are gone, if it does not suit her later. Certainly no one should feel hurt over such a reply.

At any rate, if I were you, I should most certainly take my vacation, regardless of whether all my relatives got them or not at my expense.

LOUISA.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE BUDGET IS APPROVED

A public Health Nurse for Milam county is provided for in the budget adopted here this week by the Commissioners' Court.

FUTURE FARMERS GO TO BIG ENCAMPMENT

A delegation of Future Farmers from the C. H. Yoe chapter spent Auguest 12, 13 and 14 at Georgetown at the annual F. F. A. encampment for chapters of district 8. E. D. Parnell, local chapter adviser, sponsored the trip for the boys and the Mauritz-Baldwin Hardware Corporation allowed the boys the use of an International truck in going to and from the camp.

Eighteen schools sent over 200 boys to the encampment and the program included boxing, baseball, volley ball, swimming and diving contests, and speeches and demonstrations on various agricultural subjects. The Cameron boys won a number of awards in boxing, diving, and other events. John Calvin Haygood was named champion in the fancy diving events. Cameron entered teams in volley ball and baseball but both were eliminated in the semi-finals. E. D. Parnell gave a poultry judging and culling demonstration Tuesday afternoon to a large group of boys and visiting poultrymen. The poultry program was sponsored by Swift & Company.

The Rockdale Chapter won first honors in volley ball and ranked high in wrestling, baseball and boxing. All five of Milam County F. F. A Chapters were represented at the encampment.

and in circumference as large as a fully developed ear, measuring 7 and one eight inches. The grains have completely covered the end and the symmetry is perfect.

Albert can and does raise larger corn than this sample. In fact, his farm this year has an abundant supply of grain. The freak ear has been turned over to Secretary Paden of the Chamber of Commerce for exhibition at the fair in October.

Rent Checks May Come In September Says Co. Agent

Rental checks for cotton farmers who entered new contracts this year were not expected before the middle of September, it was said by George Banzhaf, county agent, Tuesday.

Included in these delays are split contracts also. He said that the first rental checks would be in about September 15 with the possibility of further delay. It is possible that the rental checks on 1935 contracts may not be received until as late as October or November.

At present the office is distributing allotment certificates and many complaints are being registered by farmers. Private estimates give the 1935 crop at 30,000 bales. This would be 9,000 less than 1934. Tax free lint allowed is larger than 1934. Many farmers were asking for a more equitable adjustment of tax free cotton to avoid payment of $30 a bale on cotton. They say the Bankhead bill becomes a tax measure when many farmers have excess certificates while others have to buy them.

The allotment plan will result in high taxes unless certificates are centrally deposited with ginners to protect farmers who produce in excess of their free lint limits. Farmers who fall short of their allotment should be issued certificates for the amount they gin in order to protect those who have an excess. In this way, it is argued, cotton would bring the peg price because it would be free of the $30 bale tax.

Farmers hit by this system of taxes point out that the purpose of the AAA was primarily to reduce the surplus and they argue that a bale of cotton, no matter how high the tax barrier to get it to the gin, becomes surplus when produced in excess of market demands, and the only result of the tax plan is to raise revenue for the government.

On 10,000 bales of taxed cotton the farmers of the county would pay three hundren thousand dollars in taxes.

Gus Evans Has Big Watch That Looks Like Alarm Clock

Gus Evans, local optometrist and jeweler, was having a hard go of it to get around with a big watch he recently obtained. It looks more like an alarm clock than a watch and the editor was told it had these words across the face of it: "Anti-Magnetique Doxa."

We never suspected Gus at all, but this does seem a bit strange.

The watch is about 50 years old and has a 15 jewel movement. It measures almost 4 inches in length and is almost three inches across the face.

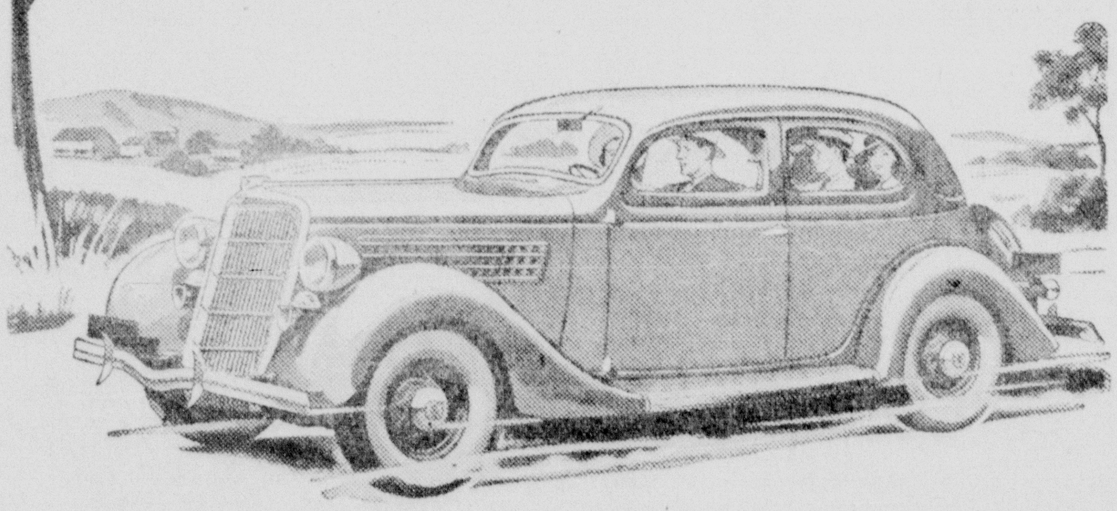
YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V·8



You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip — to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.
